

Getting around the FLICKR site from: www.flickr.com/photos/ohglaphotos/sets

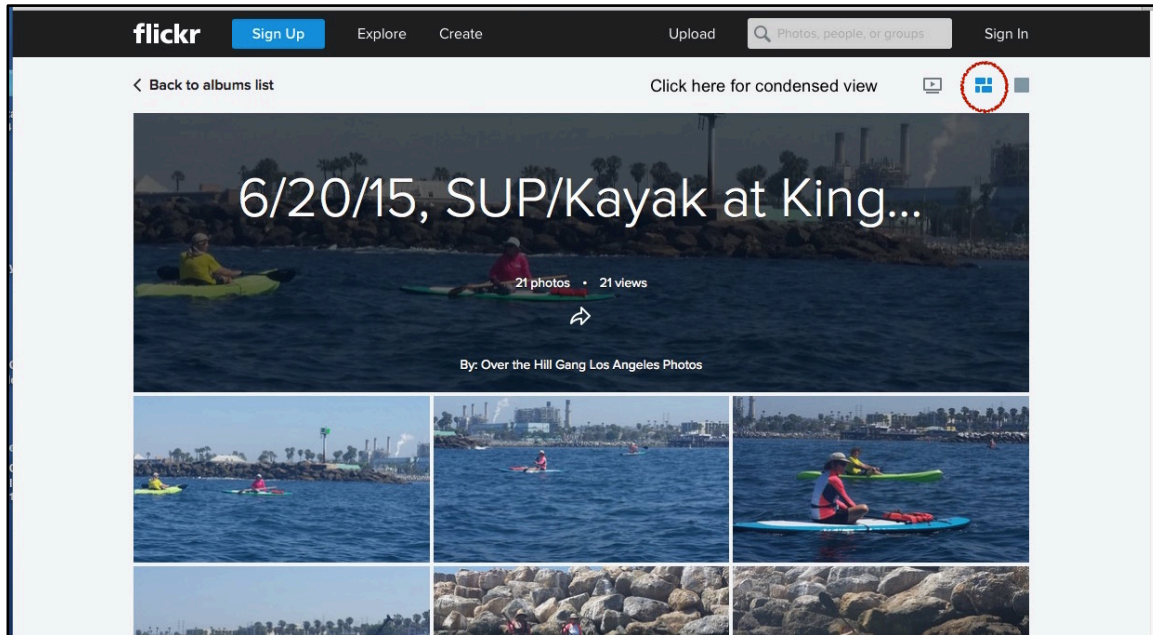

To view an album (set), just double click on it to open.

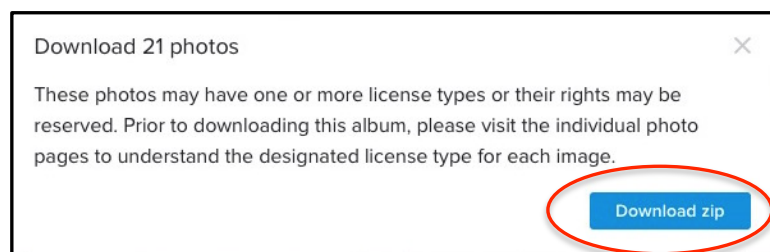

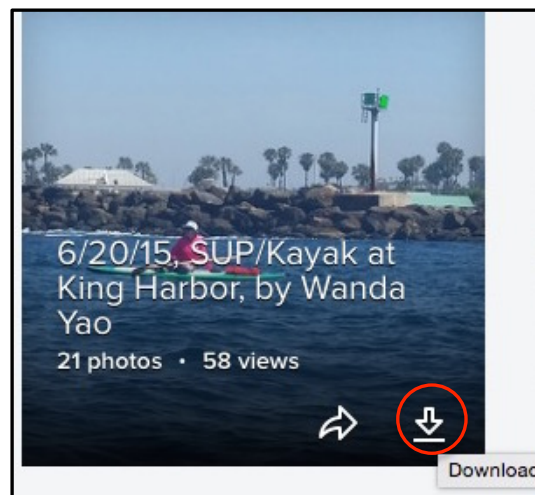

You will see a full size set, with pictures one below the other. To view a slide show, click on the first icon at the top right.

To view a condensed version of the photos, click on the blue icon at the top right.

To download an entire album, place your mouse over the bottom right hand corner of the album and double click the down arrow when it pops up. You will see a notice of the number of photos to be downloaded original size in a folder to your desktop or designated download location.

To download an individual photo, double click on the photo, scroll to the bottom and select the down arrow icon at the far right bottom corner; it will bring up a menu and you can select the size you want to download. For publication of photos on the website I select "Medium."
